BURIED ALIVE.

Are You Sure That Your Relative Is Actually Dead, When the Coffin Is Fastened, Never To Be Opened?

This is a startling question; but it is one that every living person should seriously contemplate. What a thought it must be, to have the mind harrowed by the idea that a beloved parent, sister or brother, whom we have lately consigned to the grave, might possibly have been alive at the moment of interment! In the enjoyment of health, or in the pursuit of active business, the thought seldom occurs to us that possibly we may be buried alive. Yet such has been the fate of many a one—more than the world knows of—and each individual runs the risk in his own person of this awful reality. It is a wonder that the subject has not attracted more public attention than it has; for we read very little about it in the public prints. This silence may be accounted for partly from the fact that comparatively few cases have happened of which we have any knowledge. But why is this so? It is because the closed coffin shuts out forever the terrible revelations of intense suffering from suffocation which the comparatively dead have to undergo. The living can never know of the mortal throes—the agony of the grave. That a person may be dead to all appearance, and yet life not extinct, has been often demonstrated, and it is from this fact that we should be keenly alive to an apprehension of its occurrence among our own friends.

We learn from a report made to the authorities of Berlin, that in the course of thirty months, ten people who had been supposed dead were found to be alive, and were saved from real death. In the large towns in Germany mortuary chambers are established, in which the dead are placed some days before burial. Dr. Mannl, a professor in the University of Rome, offered some years ago, a prize of 15,000 francs, to be paid by the French Academy of Sciences, for an essay on the signs of death and the means to be taken to prevent premature interment. The essay was written, but nothing satisfactory was elicited. But, public opinion having been awakened to the subject, laws were afterwards passed, founded upon actual observation, by which mortuary houses were directed to be established. Cases of suspended animation, though not very numerous, for the reason before given, have happened sufficiently often to put us on our guard, and it will serve my purpose to narrate a few which have occurred.

It is related that the Rev. Edward Wolfe, the writer of the memorable and popular lines on the death of Sir John Moore, who fell at Corunna, Spain, was a posthumous child of his mother—that is, he was born after the supposed death of his mother and her burial. The story runs that, after she had laid some time in the vault chosen for the burial place, some sacrilegious wretches, knowing that her jewelry had not been removed from her person, attempted to rob her in her grave. They did so so violently that, in tearing the rings from her fingers, they caused the blood to flow, which revived her, and she was subsequently rescued from the grave, and afterwards bore the author of the aforesaid lines.

A remarkable instance of resuscitation was related to the French Senate in 1865, by Cardinal Donnett, as having happened to himself. It being short, I herewith transcribe it:

"In 1826, a young priest was suddenly struck down, unconscious, in the pulpit of a crowded cathedral where he was preaching. The funeral knell was soon after tolled, and a physician declared him to be certainly dead, and obtained leave for his burial next day. The bishop of the cathedral where this event had occurred had recited the 'De Profundis' by the side of the bier. The coffin was being already prepared. Night was approaching, and the young priest, who heard all these preparations, suffered agonies. He was only twenty-eight years old, and in perfect health. At last he distinguished the voice of a friend of his childhood. This caused him to make a superhuman effort, and produced the wonderful effect of causing him to speak. The next day he was able to preach again."

This astonishing narrative, related by the very person who had been the subject of restoration to life, produced its effect; and, with some other instances which were mentioned by other Senators as having fallen under their notice, caused more attention to be paid to the subject of burials. The Senate forwarded the matter to the Minister of the Interior, and, by so doing, implied that the existing laws on the subject were insufficient.

Another case on record is related by a foreign journal of a female, supposed to be dead, who was saved just at the right time from being buried alive. The girl had sickened and died, as her friends thought; she was laid out as usual, and remained, to all appearance, a corpse for three days, when the time arrived which was appointed for her burial. When the undertaker came to screw down the lid of the coffin, a slight perspiration was noticed upon her skin, which being immediately regarded, and an examination was made. Life was soon found to be in the body, and she was restored to health.

The most interesting part of the circumstance is the account that the girl gave of her own experience during the inanimate state. She said she appeared to dream she was dead, but was sensible of every thing that was passing around her, and distinctly heard her friends bewail her death. She felt them envelop her in the shroud and place her in the coffin. The sensation gave her extreme agony, and she endeavored to speak, but her soul was unable to act on her body. She attempted in vain to move her arms, to open her eyes, to speak. The agony was at its hight when she heard the funeral hymn, and found they were about to nail down the coffin. The horror of being buried alive gave new impulse to her mind, which resumed its power over its corporal organization, and produced the effects which excited the notice of those who were about to convey her to a premature grave.

Another case of recent occurrence is related of a young girl in the State of Ohio, who was pronounced dead by the physicians in attendance. Her disease was typhoid fever. The decision was acquiesced in by the girl's friends, with the exception of her mother, who noticed that the body still retained its warmth. Efforts at resuscitation had been made in vain, and it was determined to consign her to her grave; but the day before the time affixed for the funeral—as the account states—"while one of the neighbors and the mother were standing by the side of the supposed corpse, the door, which had been left open, blew shut with a loud noise, which had the effect of so acting upon the girl as to bring her to and set her life-blood in motion. She sprang up in bed, and, throwing her arms around her mother's neck, wept for joy over her escape from the horrid death of being buried alive."

The lady, describing her sensations, says that when she felt herself sinking she had no fear of death, but turned upon her side, and, as she did so, all pain disappeared, and she sank to sleep as peacefully as a child. She lay, she thinks, unconscious for an hour or more, for when she came to herself she found that she was laid out ready for burial. She tried to speak to them, but her tongue refused to do its office; she tried to move, but could not; and there she lay blessing her mother for her refusal to allow her to be buried. Upon two occasions, when her mother was alone with her in the room, it seemed as though she left the body, and, standing by the side of it, could look down upon it as she could upon her mother.

Then, too, there is the instance which occurred in Rochester but a week or two since—that of the little girl who was found drowned as it was thought, and carried to her home for preparations for the grave. Fortunately, attempts were made to restore her to life, and, after several hours of unwearied labor, they were successful, and the little child in a short time was as full of life and animation as she had ever been. Now, what would have been her fate had not kind friends interposed and restored suspended animation? We cannot say with certainty, but it is more than probable that, after a short time—perhaps after she had been laid in her coffin, sealed up forever from the world—nature would have resumed her functions, and the little girl would have awakened only to undergo the unendurable oppression of the lungs, the rigid embrace of the narrow house, the blackness of night, and the unseen but palpable presence of the conqueror—death.

Now, if life is suspended in case of drowning, why may it not happen when other causes produce death, or what is taken for it? May it not be that the vital power, though not discernible, is not extinct, when it appears to those who surround the death-bed that the signs of life have departed?

The two diseases which most nearly simulate death are catalepsy and the state of trance or prolonged syncope. In the first of these diseases, death is not so perfectly counterfeited as in the last. The patient (I quote from good authority) lies immovable and apparently unconscious; the limbs are rigid and cold, the eyes are fixed, sometimes remaining open, and the jaw sometimes drops. But the resemblance of death goes no further. The body and head retain their usual warmth; the pulse and breathing can always be noticed if particular attention is paid to them.

The latter disease is the cause of much more error, being at more closely resembles death and its consequences. The patient is motionless, and apparently unconscious, although he is usually aware of what is passing around him. The pulsation of the heart and arteries, and the breathing, gradually diminish in force and frequency, until they become at last quite imperceptible; the whole surface of the body grows cold, and all this may last for many days. How (the writer asks from whom I quote) is one in such a condition known not to be dead?

There are various ways known to medical men by which the dead body can be distinguished from the living person—by ascultation, by microscopic examinations of the blood, and by what is called "dynamoscons," that is, the buzzing, humming noise which is heard all over the body of the living; all these methods have in some cases proved fallacious, especially the last named, which has been proposed in cases of catalepsy and syncope.

Now, there is one test which never fails, which is alike significant to the unscientific eye, as well as to medical science. It is the only test which cannot fail or deceive. It is invariably certain. That test is putrefaction or mortification of the system. When this is observable, there is no longer room to doubt; and it is a question which concerns every living human being, whether, in all cases, signs of decomposition should not be manifest before the remains are consigned to the tomb; or, which is the same thing, before the undertaker screws down the coffin lid. The writer of this article is cognizant of two instances where the remains were, within a few hours, after signs of life disappeared, enclosed in a double coffin for transportation to the place of interment—distant hundreds of miles from the place of death. Happily, both for the survivors and the dead, the coffins were opened at the place of burial, and no signs of premature "embrace of the narrow house" were visible.

Great caution should be observed in this regard; and the writer of this article, who may meet his death in some locality distant from his place of interment, most devoutly prays that it may not be his fate to wake up in his coffin to find the "clinging of the death garments" about him, the "blackness of absolute night, and a silence like a sea that overwhelms."

Bursting of a Glacier.

A correspondent of one of the London papers gives the following account of a singular occurrence at Chamounix, Savoy, on July 23d:

"At ten minutes to five a dark cloud overshadowed the valley of Chamounix, a peal of thunder was heard, and then a continuous roar that awakened every soul in the village and caused every eye to strain itself in the direction of the Aiguille Blaitiere. At this moment no sign could be seen of the cause of so much commotion. Presently a puff of smoke, as it so appeared on the crest of the mountain that supports the Glacier des Pelerins, raised a cry that the glacier had burst, bringing with it part of the moraine that had kept it within bounds. The peasants of the valley were rushing to and fro, driving the cattle into safe quarters, and then all eyes were watching one of the most glorious and overwhelming sights the visitors to Chamounix could desire to see. My pen is too weak to describe the commotion this mighty avalanche created, every moment adding fuel to its course, tossing up clouds of spray, bringing with it pine trees, huge bowlders, rude bridges and deserted chalets, until it reached the pretty Cascade du Dard, when the noise was most deafening. The falling mass here, filling the gully and gaining speed at every exertion, left the course the stream usually takes, and, tearing down pine trees, opened an immense track and overflowed the meadows and gardens of the Hotel Royal, destroying whole fields of barley and potatoes, and, after spending its fury for twenty minutes on meadow and peasant land, this muddy mass formed itself into a large lake, which will remain some time to be regarded by tourists as an event that is very rare in the valley of Chamounix."

A Workingman's Party.

A movement is now on foot among the workingmen to call a convention, to be composed of delegates from all the States, for the purpose of placing in nomination a workingman's Presidential ticket, and to effect a more thorough organization of the workingmen as a political party throughout the United States. The convention, if agreed upon, as is extremely probable, will be called to meet sometime in September, or early in October. The party, when formed, will be a distinctive organization, entirely independent of both existing parties. Its main planks will relate to finance, the public debt, the hours of labor, the distribution of public land, etc. No mention has yet been made of probable candidates. Gen. Cary is spoken of, also M. Trevilack. A committee will be sent to confer with Gen. Cary, and ask him to accept the leadership of the new party.

—A sculptor took a cast of Gen. Halpine's head after death.

THE DUMAS.

Fils et Pere et Grand-Pere.

It is after this fashion that the younger Dumas writes of his grandfather and father:

Soldier and General of the Republic my grandfather could stifle a horse between his legs, and break a helmet with his teeth, and he defended all alone Brixon bridge against a vanguard of twenty men. Rome would have decreed him the honors of triumph, and would have made him Consul. Calmer and more economical France refused a college education to his son, and this son, reared in the midst of the woods, air and sky, impelled by poverty and his own genius, swooped one day upon Paris, and entered literature as his father entered the enemy's ranks — jostling, destroying, knocking over everything which did not make way for him. Then begun the Cyclopean labor which has lasted forty years. Tragedy, drama, history, novels, travels, comedies, you have thrown everything into the world of fiction with new creations. You have made newspaper, book and stage burst, too narrow for your immense shoulders. You have supplied France, Europe, America; you have enriched publishers, translators, plagiarists; you have made printers breathless, foundered copyists, and devoured by need of production; you have not always sufficiently tested the metal you used, and you took and threw into the furnace, sometimes at hazard, everything which came under your hand. The intelligent fire divided them. That which came from you flowed away bronze; that which came from others went away smoke. In this way you have hammered a great deal of bad iron; but on the other hand how many of them who had remained obscure have been lighted and warmed at your forge, and if the hour of restitution be struck, what gain for you, were you merely to take back what you have given and what has been taken from you. You have become "Dumas, Sr.," for the respectful; "old Dumas" for the insolent, and amid all sorts of clamors you may sometimes hear the phrase: Really, his son has more talents than he. How you must have laughed. No. You were proud, you were happy, like any insignificant father; you asked nothing better than to believe it, maybe you believed what they said. Dear, ingenious, and good, great man! who would have given me your glory as you gave me your money when I was young and lazy, I am delighted to have at last the opportunity to bow publicly before you, to do you homage in the face of the sun and to embrace you, as I love you, in the face of the future! Let others of my age and my worth declare themselves your equal; 'tis their business and I have no more reproach than to envy them their supposition, for I, by merely being your son shall be as well known as thee; but possibly, which, let come what may, will be obliged to reckon with you, when it treads on your name under the other chronologically in the balance sheet of this century, must distinctly understand I have never looked upon you except as my father, my friend, my master, whatever may be said to the contrary; that thanks to your neighborhood, I have had the good fortune of never exaggerating myself and of looking upon myself as a baby, because I was always obliged to compare myself with my redoubtable father.

GENERAL ITEMS.

—Mr. Burlingame says the Chinese have more books, encyclopedias, pamphlets, magazines, etc., than any other people. Their principal encyclopedia embraces 5000 volumes.

—The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph says: A car wheel on the Southwestern Railroad ran over a negro man's leg, near the ankle, and strange to say, he got up and walked off, sustaining no injury more than it slightly peeled off the skin and bruised his leg a little.

—Robert Ould, ex-Confederate agent for the exchange of prisoners, is out in a two-column manifesto designed to show that Grant was responsible for the horrors of Andersonville, by refusing to agree to the terms of exchange proposed by Commissioner Ould.

—An Italian barber, who passed in New York as a Duke for five years, playing the dickens with the young ladies, has been arrested for swindling in Germany. Several hundred love-letters and eighty photographs are among his effects.

—Greeley publishes an article in the Independent saying there is danger of Grant's defeat, unless the Republicans do better than they have. He states that unless Ohio works harder for the Republican ticket she will give ten thousand for the Democrats. The Republicans must carry two of these States: Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York, or lose the election.

—A Hebrew merchant, Jubal Apatow, recently deceased at Wilna, Prussia, used to supply three hundred families with bread at half price. Twenty thousand people attended his funeral.

—Grasshoppers are creating great devastation in cornfields of Southwestern Iowa. On the 16th, at Glenwood and White Cloud, moving swarms of these pests were so great as to obscure the sun.

—A ferocious Texas lion is said to be slaughtering sheep, pigs, etc., in Boone county, Missouri.

—The army worm has destroyed the greater portion of the cotton crop in the vicinity of Greensboro, Ala.

—They have some tolerably persistent poker-players out in Detroit. Two of them recently played constantly for three days and nights, and when last heard from were still at it.

—A selected eleven from the most celebrated cricketers of England sail from Liverpool September 3d, and will arrive in New York about the 12th or 13th. During the first week they will play matches against two selected twenty-twos from various clubs in the State of New York and city of New York and its environs.

—Some of the best prairie land in the State of Alabama was recently sold at public auction for one dollar and one cent per acre. So much for scalawag and carpet-bag rule.

Searching the Black Forest.

A correspondent writing from the gambling hells of Weisbaden, Hamburg and Baden-baden, says:

Every morning at sunrise there is a squad of men seen searching the forests that adjoin the famous gambling resorts. They are appointed by the Government to hunt out the bodies of suicides. Scarcely a morning passes that several are not found. A short time since, at Weisbaden, a young English nobleman lost his all at the table. He blew out his brains there and then with a revolver. His body was carried away; the gamblers wiped off the blood from the table with their handkerchiefs, and remarked, "Gentlemen, we will not delay the game!" The play went on as usual. The ladies did not faint—they were too absorbed in the clinck of the gold.

Republican Theory of the Situation.

A party of reckless thieves and lawbreakers have forced their way into a house, gagged its owner, ravished his wife, and are gorging themselves with plunder. The neighbors appear with the officers of the law. The thieves and law-breakers stand at all the windows and bellow: "Let us have peace. We are in possession. Go away. You are revolutionists. You want to stir up civil war. We own this house de facto. Only a rebel would raise the question de jure. Let us have peace!"—World.

THERE are many ways of boiling potatoes, but the best and only right way is to let the water boil before putting the potatoes in. When done, pour off the water and scatter in three or four teaspoonfuls of salt; cover the pot with a coarse cloth, and return it to the fire for a short time. In five minutes take them out and serve. Watery potatoes are made mealy by this process.

—The President has officially proclaimed that the Legislature of Georgia has ratified the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

—General Reynolds, commanding in Texas, has appointed a migratory military commission to visit various parts of that State, and try people charged with crime.

—The United States were not beaten in their suit in the French courts to recover funds paid by the Confederates for iron-clads. The verdict was in the Government's favor, but an appeal has been taken.

—Samuel Webb, of Westchester, Pa., fireman of an engine on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was cleaning out the smokestack of his engine, on Thursday, when he fell head first in, and was suffocated before he could be got out.

—The old Washington Theater, used as headquarters by the Democrats of the capital in Jackson's time, was rededicated to the service of the party by a public meeting.

—Three little girls of a Patterson, N. J., family recently murdered a neighbor about their own age, by throwing her in a well, to obtain her fine clothes. One of the murderesses, Sarah Long, ten years old, is arrested now for larceny, at Newark.

The Government Commissioners have been instructed by telegraph to make an examination of the section.

—Information has been received at the Postoffice Department, warranting the belief that the British Postoffice Department will assent to the proposed modification of the new postal convention between the two countries, by which, among other things, the postage on small pamphlets will be reduced. The convention is an improvement, in various particulars, over the one now in force. Postal negotiations are now pending between the United States and France for more liberal exchange of mails.

—The disposition to evade the whisky tax still exists, notwithstanding the reduction of fifty cents a gallon—a rate fixed upon as the exact compromise line upon which the cupidity and conscience of distillers could harmonize. The latest device to swindle the government on this article is veneering the heads of casks with a thin layer of false heading, upon which the stamp is placed. This veneering, when carefully handled, can be removed and, with the undefaced stamp, made to serve for an indefinite number of casks.

—A dispatch from Lancaster says: "On Tuesday an election was held in this district for the nomination of a candidate for the Forty-first Congress. It had been previously recommended by the Republican Committee of the county that, notwithstanding the death of Mr. Stevens, his name should stand at the head of the ticket, and that he should be nominated as if he was living. For the first time in the political history of the country a man, already passed beyond the confines of time, was nominated for Congress without opposition." Another nomination will be made before the election.

—Gen. Schofield has issued an order which includes an extract from the army appropriation bill passed last year, prohibiting military organizations in the Southern States. It is done to quiet the clamor of the Radicals over Schofield's refusal to furnish arms to the militia. South on the application of their Governors, and also for information to officers of those departments.

—About four weeks ago, at the residence of Mrs. Young, in McCracken county, Ky., a negro woman gave birth to three children, two of whom were white and the other intensely black. The mother is also quite black. The children lived but a few days.

—Many bears have had to take up their beds and walk because of the fires in Gutinesu woods in Canada. They couldn't bear it.

—They managed to get along in the Republican Congressional Convention of the Twenty-third District of Pennsylvania, with 213 ballots. The general result was the defeat of the Hon. Thomas Williams, one of the managers of the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, on behalf of the House of Representatives. On the two hundred and thirteenth ballot, Darwin Philps was unanimously nominated.

—The Hartford, Conn., Live Stock Insurance Company has been suspended, having lost $410,000 within the last twenty-two months. The Treasurer of Connecticut holds $100,000 of the capital of the company, which will be used for paying the losses, etc.

—The people of Indiana are beginning to think that something must be done to relieve them of the stigma of living in "the great divorce State." The divorces granted in Indiana under present laws, number, on the average, about 5000 per annum.

—A letter containing an Indian scalp, and addressed to a woman in Maine, was lately stopped for postage in St. Louis.

—A writer in Minnesota has come across a nine months' old baby, whose "measurements" he gives as follows: 26 inches in height, 24 inches around the chest and 28 at the hips, 10½ inches at the muscles of the arms, 8½ at the wrist, 22 inches at the thighs, and 11 inches at the calf. Estimated weight, 50 pounds.

THE Tipton Record says: "We have had a good deal of rain recently, which is not of much advantage to cotton, although as yet no harm has been done. The plant looks in fine condition, and has generally more blooms and bolls than usual. We predict a fine yield this year, and expect our farmers will make so much money this season that they will have it to sell. Corn is better than ever known in this country before. We heard a farmer say that he would make corn enough this year to do him for two years to come. We are looking forward to a good time."

IN Prussia the greater part of the laborers on the railroad which is being built between Dirschau and Schneidemuehle, quitted their work because they could get no higher wages than about twenty six cents in gold (eleven silver groschen) a day.

IT is suspected that the French government is buying gold in New York—preparing for war. That government bought tobacco in 1867 and prepared for smoke.

IT IS reported that the Empire of Austria, by a resolution of the Government, will be styled hereafter, Austrian-Hungarian Monarchy.

LETTER FROM NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, August 20, 1868.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

On dit, that the first session of the forever infamous black-and-tan Legislature, now misrepresenting the people of this State, is shortly to be brought to a close, whereat, it is no wonder, the citizens with one accord rejoice with an exceeding great joy. The annals of the world afford no parallel to the wantonly aggressive actions of these scalawag, carpet-sack bearing, miscegenatists, and consequently when the Northern masses of the American people shall have more perfectly recovered from the vindictive sentiments engendered by four years of strife, they must recall, only with mingled feelings of astonishment and indignant shame, the remembrance that they had ever known or tolerated an epoch when such shameless oppression of so large a portion of their fellow countrymen was possible in this once free land, or that a vile faction almost, as it would now seem, concentrated in a rump Congress, should have been permitted, whilst claiming the title of a representative body, to legislate away almost every vestige of civil liberty from the free born white citizens of ten sovereign States.

But although the most shameful corruption has been openly practiced, and the votes of Republicans in this Legislature bought for monied consideration, as men buy articles of apparel or food; and the enormities known as the school bill, the lottery scheme, the militia bill, and divers other measures only a shade less infamous, allowed to disgrace the statute book, our people have patiently borne all these evils, sustained by the bright hope of success in the approaching Presidential election, and with that victory a change of all the tyrannical measures inflicted on them by the miscalled reconstruction acts, as planned and carried out by the late Thaddeus, the accomplished spoon thief, and sundry others of that kidney under the immediate auspices and insligation of their master, the Devil.

Huge torch light processions, numbering thousands of horsemen and pedestrians are just now almost of nightly occurrence here, and these worthy adherents of Seymour and Blair have been keeping up a continuous Fourth of July celebration in the shape of fireworks for nearly the whole of the past month. In short, the hope of dawning freedom is hailed by the white people of New Orleans with the most enthusiastic delight, and it is no wonder the skies are thus illuminated each evening by the passage of innumerable rockets, ascending balloons, and many hued Roman candles. However, whilst political enthusiasm runs so high, preparations for the anticipated fall trade are by no means forgotten or neglected, and already painters and gilders are busy in every street, and new goods filling to repletion the splendid show cases and plate glass windows of Canal street and other business thoroughfares.

The people are decidedly more hopeful than they have been since the war, for the cheerful crop prospects, no less than the unmistakable signs of political reaction all over the country alike contribute to this pleasant state of feeling, and it is so very patent as to attract the notice and gladden the heart even of an old woman, like your correspondent,

AUNT BETSY.

THE latest infliction suggested is the annexation of nigger Hayti to the United States.

A HALF million dollar fire has occurred at Lisbon, and the blue bloods have a sensation.

CITY MATTERS.

MR. H. M. SULLIVAN, of Panola county, is authorized to act as agent for the APPEAL in Mississippi—receive subscriptions and advertisements and receipt for the same.
JOHN AINSLIE, Business Manager.

THE Chamber of Commerce have a meeting at noon to-day.

JOE LOCKE has a choice variety of reading matter at his news depot on Jefferson street. Call and see him if you want something good to read.

THE COUNSEL of the negro murderer, Sam Moody, having entered an appeal to the Supreme Court, his execution will not take place on the 16th day of October—if ever.

BASE BALL CHALLENGE.—The Bluff City Base Ball Club, of this city, has challenged the Empire Club, of St. Louis The game will come off at St. Louis on the Second Wednesday in October, about the time of the annual fair.

SECOND WARD CLUB.—The regular weekly meeting of the Second Ward Democratic Club will take place to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at 8½ o'clock. Able speakers will be on hand to address the club. Prompt attendance is requested. By order of the President.
J. V. SAVAGE, Secretary.

FOR THE information of those who may not be aware of the fact, we would state that cool and pleasant weather is now in fashion in this city. It is appreciated by city folks, after the scorching they recently went through with.

THE PROTEST of those persons opposed to the present method of paying for the Nicholson pavement, having been tabled by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, they hold another meeting to see what they'll do about it, at Ferguson's Hall, on Beal street, to-night.

STEAMBOATMEN'S CLUB.—This club will hold its regular weekly meeting to-night at 8 p.m. at Stillman Hall. Col. J. W. Robertson and other speakers will address the meeting. All steamboat and railroad men, as well as the ladies, are invited to attend.

THE MEMBERS of the rival boat clubs are making energetic preparations for the race which is to come off in about a month. Getting up at daybreak and taking a pull on the river, before breakfast, is good exercise, but few people have enthusiasm enough to appreciate it.

THEATRICAL.—Mr. C. D. Steinkuhl and Mrs. Thompson leave for New York this evening, to make arrangements with "stars" and to engage the services of a good stock company for the New Memphis Theater the coming season, which will be inaugurated about the 15th of October.

REV. J. W. ROGERS will render his poem of "The Lost Cause," at the Tabernacle, Wednesday night. This is quite a new species of entertainment among us, and three weeks repetition before audiences composed of our most cultivated people, is the best comment on its merits. Tickets, 50 cents.

EMMONS & SON received last night, London Quarterly Review, Liverpool Mercury, London Punch, London Illustrated News, Gleason's Literary Companion, French Courier, La Semaine, Lemond's Phunny Phellow, for October, London Times, Scottish American Journal, Scientific American, Day Book, Round Table, Nation, and the usual dailies and Harper's Weekly.

A MEMPHIAN KILLED.—By a dispatch from Cheyenne of the 17th inst., we learn that S. Rosenthal, for merly of this city and well known here, had been killed that day at that place. A Dr. Johnson is mentioned as the slayer. No explanation of the crime is given. A mob had demanded Johnson of the authorities for the purpose of hanging him, but at last advices nothing had been done.

GOOD TIME COMING.—We all look forward to a good business season the coming fall, but now money is scarce and dealers in all kinds of merchandise, rather than remain idle, are offering such inducements as cannot be obtained a few weeks hence. Messrs. Strauss & Blum will continue their auction sale of dry goods, notions, etc., to-day at 10 o'clock, at their auction house, No. 213 Main street, where bargains can be had.

THE funeral of Robert Wardlow, who died on Saturday evening, from a congestive chill, was well attended yesterday, his remains being followed to their last resting place by a large number of citizens, white and colored, headed by the band of which he was the leader. Deceased was about the first colored Democrat in Memphis, and lived to see hundreds of his race following in his footsteps.

COSMOPOLITAN RESTAURANT—No 18 Union street, between Main and Front. Alfred Marzorati, the well known caterer, has leased this splendid place, and wishes all his friends and patrons to call this day at 10 o'clock, to participate in a lunch, the like of which has never been seen in Memphis. Genuine turtle soup, elephant steaks, and every delicacy of the season, fine wine, ale, porter, etc. Boarders will be received after this day at reasonable rates. No. 1 cooks are employed. A. MARZORATI, Manager.

THE business season is about to open, and it behooves every man to let his business be known by distributing cards, circulars or handbills, or putting an advertisement in a newspaper that has a wide circulation. In this connection we would call attention to the APPEAL Job office, where any description of card or circular, billhead or other printing can be executed in the best style, at as low a figure as the work can be done at in Memphis. With competent workmen, new type and presses and a desire to please, we are determined to give satisfaction to all who may favor us with their work.

ALMOST AN ESCAPE.

A Sable John A. Murrell.

Adventures of a Negro Horse-Thief.

Some eighteen months ago several valuable animals were stolen from the stables of R. C. Erwin, Esq., of Hernando, Miss. The fact was duly telegraphed and made known in this city at the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police, and Detective Selkirk was set to work the case up. In due course of time the thief made his appearance in the city, as was supposed he would, and was arrested by Selkirk. He proved to be a notorious character—a negro named Lyttleton Johnson, who had already earned a reputation for himself in police circles.

He was conveyed to Hernando and lodged in jail, whence he was taken by the military authorities and carried to Vicksburg, to be tried by court martial. Three months passed on, however, and he was not brought to trial, but sent back to Hernando and again lodged in jail. There he remained for several months, and about five months ago, in company with two other negroes, broke jail and disappeared altogether.

In the course of two months or so, Detective Selkirk, whose sleepless eyes have been and are, the terror of so many evil doers, espied him in town again, and dropped on him. He very loudly and vehemently declared that he had been discharged from custody; but his captor made inquiries at Hernando, by telegraph, and was answered that he was "wanted." He was again taken down to Mississippi and lodged in his old quarters. There he remained scarcely a month before the desire to be "out and doing" again impelled him to strike a blow for freedom. During the night he made a hole in the wall of his cell, under the window, and seizing hold of the casement, pulled himself outside, drawing with him a blanket and a piece of rope, which he was making into a cable to let himself down to the ground, when daylight came upon him and he was discovered. A ladder was placed against the building, and he was again secured and incarcerated in an iron cage, the floor of which was of solid sheet iron. This cage was left inside the jail, and he was kept a close prisoner in it. About a week ago—a day or two before his trial—his wife was allowed to visit him, and the twain left alone for awhile by the jailer, who, after waiting a due time, returned and found the couple just taking a final embrace before parting.

Tears were being shed copiously by both parties, and the jailer, who is a kind hearted man, was melted by the affecting scene. A film gathered ever his eyes, and kindly and tenderly he escorted the bereaved "lady" out to the open air, leaving her husband blubbering in the cage into which his devilitry had gotten him.

After the "lady" left the jail door, it suddenly struck the jailer, whose eyes had begun to be somewhat freed from the briny mist which the sight of so much "conjugal infelicity" had occasioned, that the figure rapidly bustling down the street was rather taller and not quite so plethoric around the waist as the one that he had admitted as Mrs. Lyttleton Johnson, and he immediately made tracks after the supposed "her."

On overtaking "her," she proved to be none other than the redoubtable Lyttleton himself, who had changed duds with his devoted spouse, and was about making off in guise of a woman.

It is needless to say, as the writers in Bonner's Ledger say, that he was immediately reincarcerated; in due course of time was tried and convicted, and sentenced to three years imprisonment.

SOMETHING FOR A FATHER OR HUSBAND TO READ.—It is a well known fact that not one man in a hundred succeeds during life in amassing enough to support in comfort those who are dependent upon him, for one single year after he shall have been called away from them, and yet there is no man in whose heart the wish is not uppermost to provide for those nearest and dearest to him, after death has claimed him and he can no longer work for them. How strange it is, then, with opportunities on every side of them to make this provision, there are so many men that die and leave their families destitute! Each thinks that every one else must die but himself, and never reflects for a moment that "in the midst of life we are in death," and that the frail fretted thread of his own existence may be severed in an instant. What is then obviously the duty of every man? To insure, and that for the largest amount that he can carry, and in the safest and best institution that is within his reach. "Which is the safest and best," we are asked. The beau ideal of a perfect insurance corporation is that which combines perfect safety and progressiveness—the staunchness and stability of the old school, with youthful vigor and enterprise. These qualities constitute, in their possessor, the medium that may be called golden, and by no company are they possessed to a more remarkable degree than by THE ST. LOUIS MUTUAL, represented in our city by Messrs. McMahon & Otis, No. 43, Madison Street. It seems to be the institution so long wanted by the public, and to be all that could be wished by the most careful or the most progressive man. Its rapid growth in public favor is a convincing proof that it is appreciated in this light.

JAPANNED.—In addition to having been "turned and resoldered," the morning Radical sheet, to judge from its so-called editorials of yesterday morning, has lately been Japanned. It leads off with a growl about a hundred and fifty native Japanese Christians having been drowned lately, and immediately afterward the learned scalawag who grinds out its editorial, lights into the New York Herald and gives its fits, on not only the geography, but the history and ethnology of the isle of Japan. Poor country! unfortunate people! For hundreds of years they "kept themselves to themselves," and got along very well—managed to live, "be virtuous and happy," but at an evil hour Commodore Perry, with Yankee inquisitiveness, got among them, and lo! they became civilized. They learned to lie, to cheat, to steal, to murder—in fact, they learned all of the "virtues" of the great universal Yankee nation. Lord Elgin, with his bluff heartedness, tried to instill into them some of the English virtues, but the "nature of beast" was too much like that of the Yankee, and they would learn nothing from him. To what base uses not only an individual, but a whole people may fall, was never better illustrated than in this instance. So rapid has been their national decline, that they have even become the subject of a quarrel between two scalawag newspapers.

MEMPHIS AND CHARLESTON RAILROAD.—The annual meeting of the stockholders in this corporation takes place in this city on the 25th inst. The attention of all interested is called to the fact, and to the notice in another column of Geo. Robertson, Esq., Secretary and Treasurer. Stockholders and their families will be passed free over the road on showing the conductor their certificates of stock, from one day before until one day after the meeting.

SOCIAL GATHERING AT CENTRAL PARK.

Yesterday will be long remembered by the choice few who participated in the O'Conner and McClure christening at Central Park. A select company of about fifty to sixty ladies and gentlemen went out in buggies and by rail to Central Park, on the invitation of John O'Conner, to partake of a rural repast. An elegant banquet was served up on the grass, and the vintage of France and Spain freely and fully discussed.

After dinner, Henry E. Green, of the St. George's Society, being called upon for a few remarks, responded as follows:

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: On what subject shall I address (unprepared and in the worst of all conditions to make a public speech), filled to the brim with the generous viands of our notoriously generous host, a man with even less talent than Henry Green! could that be possible, would certainly try to say something, let that something be little or much. To speak of the welcome of to-day is simply impossible. Words fail to do justice to the subject. The welcome is such as an Irish gentleman only knows how to extend to his friends. More is superfluous. May I not, without too great a stretch of fancy, while looking around upon these sylvan woods and listening to the rippling brooks, call to memory the grand old woods of my native land, now populous and prosperous cities, where the welkin rang in days of yore with many such a banquet as this; aye, and presided over by Robin Hood and his Maid Marion. And as I look around me upon this assemblage of fair women and brave men and see men of every shade of political opinion, women of every shade of beauty, soldiers of the gray and the blue, foreigners and Americans, I feel that this is neither the time or the place for a public speech, yet feel satisfied that you will all join me in a bumper to John O'Conner, the prince of caterers, the polished gentleman and the constant friend. John O'Conner's health was drank with the usual honors, who replied by a neat and happy speech. Several toasts were then drank and responded to by Mr. Selkirk and others in a manner highly creditable to themselves and flattering to their genial host. The party returned to Memphis about the leaving of the last train, highly delighted with their day's amusements.

MACKEREL AT WORK.—Two young thieves, known as John Burns and Lotta, were arrested yesterday at noon for stealing a pocket book and contents. It appears that Burns and his comrade were prospecting at the landing, when they observed a countryman talking to a hackman. Burns very coolly put his hand in the man's pocket, drew out the purse and darted toward town with his companion. They were pursued, but kept ahead until they met Detective Hastings on Court street, who received them with open arms and conveyed them to the station house. When will we have a work house or house of refuge in this city, for the confinement of these juveniles who are on the high road to the penitentiary and the gallows.

NOTICE.—A report having by some means obtained circulation, that we would in the future discontinue the sale of cotton on commission, we take this method of pronouncing such report as utterly unfounded, and we fear of malicious origin. Thankful for the very liberal patronage heretofore received from the public, we hope still to merit a continuance of their confidence and patronage. We take pleasure in announcing that we will continue the cotton factorage, grocery and commission business, as heretofore, and will at all times be pleased to see and serve our friends. We are now receiving a large and carefully selected stock of goods, purchased by our Mr. Meacham in the Eastern markets, which we will sell at the lowest market prices. Our Mr. Treadwell will give his entire time and attention to the sale of cotton, and flatters himself that he will be able to give satisfaction to all who may favor us with their patronage. We are, for the present, at No. 13 Union street, but will be in our new and commodious store, at our old stand, No. 9 Union street, by the 10th of September.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, August 22, 1868.

The demand for Eastern exchange is only moderate, and it is not expected that much improvement will take place for the next fifty or sixty days, as there will be very few bills falling due in New York before the 1st of November, and by that time there will be more than enough making to supply the demand. At present, offerings are about equal to the requirements, and will continue so henceforth, so that we look for no more shipments of currency to that point, or, in fact, any other of consequence.

City bonds are still running at about 50c; $8000 were sold at that figure yesterday, and $5000 to-day. Other lots, it is said, can be found at the same rate, but holders are not so anxious to sell. Memphis and Charleston stock is firm at 53c, while Mississippi Central and Mississippi and Tennessee stocks and bonds are in active demand, but scarce.

City scrip is firmer—$8000 was sold by one dealer to another at 70c; selling in a small way at 73@75c. There is no earthly reason why it should not be worth dollar for dollar. There is we learn a determination upon the part of our authorities to make all come up and pay their past dues. We hope it is true. We have asked for the names of those who are in arrears, but have received no reply. We reiterate our request, that they may be handed to us, so we can publish them to the public. It is a duty owed to the people by our authorities, in order that every man in town may know who is in arrears, and it is equally our duty to see that they do know it. Rumor says that several of our heaviest real estate owners are largely in debt to the city for taxes long past due. If these rumors are true, we want to learn the fact, and we will soon give a very good reason why Scrip should be worth dollar for dollar. That it is not so to-day is due we fear to the want of independence on the part of those who have the matter in hand.

Gold opened in New York to-day at 144, and closed at 144¼. We could learn of no sales to report. Small amounts are taken at 142@142½; selling at 143@144.

The New York stock exchange quotations at noon to-day were as follows: Old Tennessee bonds, 64½; New Tennessee bonds, 63½. Five-twenties, coupons of '81, 13½; do '62, 13½; do '64, 8½; do '65, 11½; do new issue, 7½; do '67, 7½; 10-40s coupons, 8½. Bonds steady.

Cotton at the opening in Liverpool to-day was buoyant and advancing—uplands 10½d; Orleans 11d; and at the close was buoyant—uplands 10½@10¼d; Orleans 11@11¼d. Sales 15,000 bales.

In New York at the opening Cotton was quiet but very firm—uplands 29½@30c. At noon it was steady at the outside quotation, and closed quiet but firm—low middlings 27½c; middlings 30c; Orleans 30½c; good middlings 32½c. Sales 800 bales.

In this market seven bales ordinary were sold at 24½c, and a few straggling bales also changed hands at irregular rates.

The following letter gives a discouraging picture of the cotton crop:

Editors Memphis Appeal:

Sirs: After seeing and hearing so much about the cotton crop in the papers, reading such favorable accounts and knowing the crop to be nearly an entire failure, I feel it my duty to give you what I know to be the facts on the subject. I have traveled from Waco, Texas, since the first of this month; it has rained all the time; I came through the best cotton-growing country in the South. In Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, where I have been, they will not average one bale to ten acres planted. The boll worm has swept off all the late forms, and are now eating the grown bolls as fast as they can. It is very reasonable to say that they will eat them all, for they are nearly as thick as I ever saw the army worm. The latter worm is in nearly every crop in this neighborhood, but they can do no damage as there is nothing left for them but leaves.

Yours, etc.,
JOHN MOORE.

COTTON GINS.

COTTON GINS! COTTON GINS

E. CARVER CO.'S

Improved Gins!

THE great number of these celebrated Gin Stands in use throughout this whole country, are actual working witnesses of their acknowledged superiority. No neighborhood is without some of these splendid machines, and we make reference to each and every planter now using them as to their superior advantages over all others.

Those needing Gins will consult their best interests when they bear in mind that the "E. CARVER CO.'S IMPROVED GINS" can be had with any desired number of Saws, either right or left hand motion, by calling on or sending their orders to

ALLISON BROTHERS,

Sole Agents, 270 Front St., Memphis.

Commission Merchants desiring to make purchases of Gin Stands for their customers, will find it to their advantage to call upon us. jy14 2m ALLISON BROTHERS.

Pratt's Southern Made Cotton Gin

THIS GIN is regarded by planters who have used it, as the best for sample, picking the seed clean and light draught. Planters cultivating bottom lands are requested to examine the Eureka Gin at Farrington & Howell's, 268 Front street. It will pay for itself in ginning fifty bales. A. N. Gunnison, manufacturer of the Steel Comb Gin before the war but now a planter, gives the following certificate:

"MEMPHIS, TENN., January 31, 1868.

"I take pleasure in recommending to planters cultivating Cotton on bottom lands of the Mississippi, Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers, the Eureka Gin, made by Daniel Pratt, of Alabama. This Gin separates the hulls, bolls, etc., from the Seed Cotton, makes a good sample, and is superior to any other Gin for bottom lands. I have used one myself on a farm in Washington county, Miss., and it operates well and gives entire satisfaction in every respect.

A. N. GUNNISON."

Orders for Gins, from 40 to 80 Saws and Gum Belting, at Factory Prices, addressed to the care of FARRINGTON & HOWELL, 268 Front street, Memphis, promptly filled. Presses and Gearing put up, and Gins repaired by a skillful Ginwright. G. W. TRUEHEART, jy26 Sawdnw Agent for Daniel Pratt.

EAGLE COTTON GINS.

WE are the Sole Agents for the sale of these unrivalled Gin Stands. For beauty of STAPLE, LIGHTNESS OF DRAFT, AND QUANTITY OF LINT COTTON turned out per day, they are unsurpassed. Reference can be safely made to every planter who has given them a fair trial. Where little power is used, they make a saving of from one-quarter to one-third the draft OVER ANY OTHER GIN. We are also agents for STRAUBEL'S GRIST MILLS, and WHEELER, CLEMSON & CO.'S CIRCULAR SAWS.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF LEVEE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE COUNTIES OF BOLIVAR, WASHINGTON AND ISSAQUENA, GREENVILLE, MISS., August 5, 1868.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received until Saturday, the 29th day of August, for the construction of the following Levees.

IN BOLIVAR COUNTY.

Kirk's Levee, about 40,000 cubic yards.
Pride's Point Levee, about 40,000 cubic yards.
From Vicks to Vermillion, about 180,000 cubic yards.
Lake Bolivar Levee, 180,000 cubic yards.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

Levee from Tarpley's to Mrs. Campbell's, about 120,000 cubic yards
Greenville Levee, about 20,000 cubic yards.
Kershaw's Levee, about 20,000 cubic yards.

ISSAQUENA COUNTY.

Camack's Levee, about 350,000 cubic yards.
Christmas Levee, about 150,000 cubic yards.

Separate proposals may be made for each of these Levees, or for the whole number in the District. Propositions must state the price per cubic yard for which the work will be constructed.

For the information of capitalists, I would state that the whole amount of indebtedness of the Board is about $130,000, and that the tax on the present cotton crop will more than discharge every form of obligation.

Any information in regard to the Levees, or matters pertaining to their construction, can be obtained by application at the office.

POPULAR WORKS ON FREEMASONRY

PUBLISHED BY THE

MASONIC PUBLISHING

—AND—

MANUFACTURING COMPANY

432 Broome Street, New York.

LITURGY OF THE ANCIENT AND Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States. By Albert Pike, 33d, Sov. Grand Commander. 8vo. Splendidly illustrated with Chromo-lithographic plates and numerous wood engravings, Part II, 4th to 14th degree, $5 00.

☞ It would perhaps seem unnecessary after giving the above title-page to say anything further in the way of recommendation. The name of the author should of itself be a sufficient guarantee of its worth. Ill. Bro. Pike, by his learning and contributions has done as much to elevate the standard of Masonic literature and extend a knowledge of its symbolism, ethics and history as any other living man. This book, in its particular department, may justly be considered a master-piece, embracing matter not only useful to the Masonic student of every grade, but to men of science in the highest literary field of the present age. Notwithstanding this book has been preceded by several of a similar character, yet to Bro Pike alone is due the honor of first exploring this branch of Masonic literature and of opening to the admiration of the Craft its vast storehouse of knowledge and beauty. This work contains the degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Rite from the fourth to the fourteenth inclusive, is elegantly illustrated with chromo-lithograph engravings, showing all the jewels, costume, furniture, etc., belonging to each degree. No expense has been spared in getting it up, and it is without doubt the most elegant, as well as one of the most useful books, ever offered to the Fraternity.

Published and for sale by the Masonic Publishing and Manufacturing Company, 432 Broome street, New York, and Booksellers generally in the United States.

CURE OF EVERY FORM

— OF —

HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES

WHETHER OF LONG STANDING OR RECENT origin, Internal or external, whether attended with Prolapsus, Hemorrhage or obstruction, and all by

External Application,

No internal adjuvants being required in any case, only to regulate the bowels, if constipated, or in Diarrhea and Dysentery.

The PILES, while astonishingly prevalent in their various forms amongst all classes of both sexes, are, at the same time, the most distressing, frequently dangerous, and hitherto most difficult of cure.

Persons who suffer any length of time with the Piles generally try everything they can learn of purporting to cure the disease, yet realize no permanent advantage therefrom. They have been told professionally, perhaps, there was "no permanent cure for Piles," and consequently have despaired of any future cessation from pain and suffering.

To all such a SPECIFIC is offered for their relief. The

BUCKEYE SALVE

Is a strictly scientific combination of well known remedial agents, and the proprietors have no hesitation in saying the BUCKEYE SALVE is the

ONLY INFALLIBLE SPECIFIC

Ever discovered for that disease, and which cures by outward application only, and that in time to come, as in the past, it will stand the test of trial without a failure, to perform all the proprietors claim for it, if the directions are attended to.

A large number of gentlemen throughout the country of high character and influence have voluntarily attested to its efficacy in their own cases, not from hearsay, and whose certificates may be seen by reference to the publication.

The proprietors will forward to any address one bottle, postpaid, on receipt of the retail price, $1 00 per bottle.

Our Latest Improved

NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.

GROVESTEEN & CO.,

499 Broadway, N. Y.,

THESE instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy, during the thirty-six years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to three hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.

The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar sweetness and Great Brilliancy, never losing that quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retaining its positiveness, does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mingling with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equally delightful to the unpractised and to the musical connoisseur.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four full round corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep1 dawly

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

ROYSTER, TREZEVANT & CO.,

Auctioneers & Real Estate Brokers

HAVE REMOVED TO

S. E. Corner Main and Jefferson Streets.

IN announcing our new location, as above, we beg leave to return sincere thanks for past patronage, and hope to have the pleasure of meeting all old friends, and many new, in the central and prominent position to which we have removed. The

Real Estate Agency

In all branches, will, as heretofore, be a leading feature of our business, and, by long experience and general acquaintance with the owners of Real Estate, both in and out of the city, we hope to make our office a general resort for the exchange of title in city or country property.

Our Rental Department

Continues under the efficient management of H. L. GUION, Esq., who will attend promptly to Collecting Rent, Paying Taxes, etc.

Public Sales of Merchandise

Will also be a specialty of our business in which the central and conspicuous situation of our Salesroom offers superior advantages to consignees, to whom we will make the most liberal advances and terms on goods to be sold by auction.
